

DO YOU WANT TO LEARN COMPUTERS?
NEVER IS TOO
LATE TO START

WHY SHOULD SENIORS LEARN COMPUTERS AND HOW TO DO IT?

TO DEAL WITH DAILY NEEDS BANKING, SERVICES ECT.

Digitisation has slowly but surely seeped into our everyday lives. Our medical records are now stored in electronic databases. Our money has gone online in electronic banking services. It is much more convenient now to do many things online than off. We can avoid these changes for a while, but not for long. Just look at our supermarkets today. There are fewer cashiers and more electronic kiosks, and not all kiosks can accept cash. We all need to learn to interact with these screens on a daily basis.

TO BOND WITH FAMILY IF THEY ARE FAR AWAY

Developing basic skills in using smartphones and computers will only allow you to get more quality interactions. The most useful for this purpose is learning to use social media networks. 77% of worldwide users are active social media users. And it is not only for the young, with 33% of internet users aged 55-65 now using Instagram. If you can learn to independently navigate these platforms, they will be much more able to stay in touch with what their children and grandchildren are up to, even if they no longer live under one roof!

ANSWER TO ANY OF YOUR QUESTIONS OR DOUBTS

We all want to use internet but step by step we have a lot of questions and problems that might stop us from enjoying it. In this course we will be happy to help you out with these, any doubt that you might have just write it on a paper and let us know so we can solve it out for you. Feel free to ask any question you might have in all these years.

TO SELF-ENTERTAIN SOCIAL NETWORKS, FILMS ECT

You should understand that it is a "good choice" to use internet for fun. As we all enter in our later years, we are likely to work less and pay more attention to leisure. Ask yourself: What do I like to do? Watch soap dramas? Listen to songs of the 70s? Read books on global politics? Whatever our interests, there is likely to be no lack of apps which could easily improve our quality of life, right away.
